Whooping Cough appears to be getting quite prevalent, and we suggest the followlng simple remedy which we have tried with good results: Pour boiling water on 6 15 16 flax seed, steep it some tline, strain, and to every pint of ten add enough granulated sugar or honey to make a thick syrup; after boiling them together a few minutes put in the juice of two lemons. A faw spoonfuls taken at regular intervals will soon relieve the cough.

The foot ball teams of the South Carolina and Wofford Colleges meet on the gridiron at Greenwood to-morrow (Thursday). Both are strong teams, and the game will no doubt be a most interesting one. The greater portion of our time was spent in Pleasant Valley, at the base of the Cohuttah mountaine, in Murray County, one of the grandest sections of Georgia. Though a great deal of cotton is raised there, "hog and hominy" reign supreme, and the people are happy and prosperous. We are greatly indebted to our clever friend, L. E. Norryce, for valuable assistance rendered the INTELLIGENTER during our absence. CER during our absence.

The Greenville Mountaineer of last The Greenville Mountaineer of last Saturday says: "A six-year-old child of Mr. J. A. Woodson, of the Brushy Creek section, was very badly scalded a few nights ago. Two of the children had been sent to bed, but instead of going one had laid down before the fire-place and fallen asleep there. While the child was asleep, a large pot of hot water on the fire toppled over emptying its contents in a pool about the child. The screams of the little one rought the father to its help, but too late to prevent its being so badly burnt that the skin peeled off of the body when the child was raised up It is hoped that the child will recover.

Not only ladies and children, but most men as well, dreed the ordeal of having teeth extracted, and to all who need such work it is gratifying to know that Dr. A. S. Todd has devised a formula for extract-ing teeth without pain and without injury. He is doing a great deal of work in this line in addition to the regular practice of medicine and surgery, and many of our people are expressing grateful appreciation of his skill and ingenuity. Dr. Todd is also doing another special line of work outside the ordinary, that of removing such facial blemishes as warts, moles, powder marks, etc., without cutting and without pain. His work in this line is often complimented by those who have been benefited by it.

More than a year ago, Mr. J. Milton Mc-Connell, of the "White Hall" section, had stolen from him a ten gallon keg of wine which was stored in his cellar for domestic purposes. No clue to the guilty parties could be found, and the hope to apprehend them was abandoned and the occurrence almost forgotten. A few days Married, at the residence of the bride's ago, one of his neighbors informed him that he had seen a large well-bucket, used for cleaning out wells, in the possession of one Laurence Acker, colored, of that neighborhood, and that it was evidently made out of a ten gallon keg. On this information, Mr. McConnell procured a search warrant and, in company with a Deputy went to Acker's house. Not only was the bucket found, but also the other part of the keg which had been sawed off in mak-ing the bucket and which had been conregister and which had been converted into a tub. The parts were put together, the keg identified and Acker arrested. He soon confessed his guilt and implicated Press Wakefield, Mack Mc-Alister and Norris Acker, all colored. Warrants were procured for them and they ware at once arrested and brought before were at once arrested and brought before Trial Justice Sulpes, where a piea of guilty was entered by each of them. Thefts, as well as murder, will out.

The Patrick Military Institute of this city is one of the strongest educational institutions of the State, and we are much gratified to see it rapidly recovering from the temporary setback it received by the opening of Clemson College and our own Graded School. These schools being new to our people and the need of more enlarged school advantages had been so long felt, parents appeared to vie with each other in patronishes and supporting them. other in patronising and supporting them. Some of the older institutions of learning, equally as well equipped in all the branch es they taught, suffered loss by pupils being withdrawn, and none of them suffered more, perhaps, and merited it less than the P. M. I. We are pleased to see a steady return of the patronage this school once had and which it so justly deserves.

Col. John B Patrick is one of the most the supply seems and some of the most throughly some of the most throughl thoroughly equipped and competent edu-cators in the State, and his son, Capt. John M. Patrick, has been trained for a teacher from his cradle. We are informed that from his cradle. We are informed that fifty-seven cadets matriculated in this institute this year, which is a gain over the scholastic year preceding. Many of these cadets, probably the most of them, are from different sections of the State, distant from Anderson. The boarding house, or "Cadets House," run in connection with this school, has one decided advantage over similar institutions, which is, that it is occupied and presided over by Mrs, John M. Patrick and her mother, Mrs. N. A. McCully. These ladies are excellent house. McCully. These ladies are excellent house-keepers; thoughtful of the smaller, as well as larger the affairs which conduce to the comfort of the cadets, and their social, genial manners cannot fail to win their confidence Sam Dove, colored, of Pendleton, whose debut into Anderson society we mentioned last week, is gaining considerable prominence. He was committed for drunken ness, started a fire in his cell which alarmed the town, was sentenced to work on the streets, and on last Friday slipped his shackels and took leg bail. He was chased for some distance in the direction of Belton, but succeeded in giving his pursuers the dodge. Blood hounds were then sent for each ant on a track supposed to he for and put on a track supposed to be Doves, but after trailing it for three miles the dogs were called off and the chase abandoned. In the evening at seven o'clock, Chief Dillingham, in company with policeman McCuen, left for Pendleton in albuggy. They reached Dove's house about ten o'clock and secreted themselves. As no one was seen to enter the house up to twelve o'clock. McCuen the house up to twelve o'clock, McCuen was sent to the window near the chimney while the Chief went to the door. He de-manded admittance and was answered by a woman refusing. After some delay and evident hasty preparation, the woman threw the door open and ran out. The Chief entered ut found the house empty. In the mean, me, McCuen had heard a noise in the chimney as if some one was crawling into it. He entered the house and, without speaking, signified this fact to Dillingham. With a chuckle of evident satisfaction "Dill." began to chunk the fire and pile on more fuel. He did not have to wait long. The smoking proved effective, and in a few minutes Dove scrambled down, sneezing, coughing, choking, and the blackest, dirtiest object imaginable. He is now safely in the clutches of the law.

Don't forget that the Robinson Comic Opera Company will appear in the Opera House Friday evening next, the 20th inst. This will be a rare treat to the music-lov-This will be a rare treat to the music-loving and fun-loving people of Anderson. It will be evident from the beginning to the finish that the voices are fresh and well trained and blend in perfect harmony and with thrilling effect. Those who hear the delightful Opera, "Fra Diavolo," will carry its sweet strains in memory through life. Miss Isabella Sargent, the prima donna of the Company, is an artist of rare musical power, and her solos will be one of the pleasing festures of the evening. Miss Fankie Broach, the contralto, is of exquisite physique, graceful and winning who se parents live on Dr. D. N. Wasson's place, three miles South of Anderson, was accidentally killed last Saturday morning. The parents, Frank and Ella Carlisle, were in the field and had left two other children, nine and four years old, respectively, in charge of the infant. Dr. Watson notified Trial Justice Snipes. A Jury of fourteen, white and colored, was empaneled and carried out and an inquest held. The oldest child said the little one struck the baby with a hammer and the little one said the oldest butted the baby's head against the chimney. No hammer could be found, and the parents swore they had no hammer. The skull of the child was fractured just above the right ear, but the evidence of the four year old child did not satisfy the Jury, and the tale of the oldest was not believed. A verdict of accidental killing was rendered.

To the pleasing festures of the evening. Miss Fankle Broach, the contralto, is of the pleasing festures of the contralto, is of the winning manners and a pleasant, well trained voice. Mr. Chas. N. Holmes, the tenor, possesses a thoroughly cultivated voice and he is a finished actor. Mr. F. J. McCarthy and fur. Tom Martin, the commedians, are original and famous in their roles and never fall to put their audiences in excellent good humor. Mr. Henry C. Peaks will be remembered by theatre goers as having been long associated with the C. D. Hess and Chas. Ford Opera Companies.

He has no equal in the role of the "Miser Gaspard." Miss Ruth Acker, a little lady of fifteen summers, is an exquisite dancer. She is the embodiment of grace and assists materially in making the entertainment interesting. All in all, this is a splendid company : the best, perhaps, which has ever appeared in our Opera House. It's one should miss it. Seats are now on sale at Russell & Breazeale's, and to secure choice seats you should call on them at costumes are dazzling and six bales of cotton literally packed the Square, and extended back some distance into the various streets entering the Square, while from the cotton platform at the Southern freight depot to the Court House and around it, a string of wagons, so close together as to have the appearance of being coupled like cars, passed the live-long day. The number of bales visable were variously estimated at from 850 to 1 200 bales. A careful survey of the field Monday morning, however, revealed the fact that no less than 900 bales were brought to our city Saturday. Of this amount 744 bales were weighed. Some were carried back home and numbers of bales were thrown off at the platform and in the yards of citizens. We have two cotton weighers and two pairs of scales, but in order to keep both in operation a good sized truck force is needed and also assistants to enter the weights on the tickets and in the books. The heavy re-ceipts were not anticipated Saturday and ceipts were not anticipated Saturday and only force sufficient to operate one pair of scales had been provided—hence the failure to weigh the 900 bales. Our receipts on Thursday were 392 bales and prices as high as 7 55. On Friday there were 433 bales, with prices running to 7 50. These prices doubtless account, in a measure, for the heavy receipts Saturday, but disappointment awaited the arrival of every wagen. The market opened Saturday wagon. The market opened Saturday morning at 7.35 and steadily declined to 7 3-16 by the closing. Our farmers did very little grumbling, however. They are a sturdy, cheerful people, in good circumstances almost to a man and have long since learned the capricious capers of the cotton market. The receipts of the season up to last Saturday were 16,843 bales. Same period last season 15,046.

Death of Mrs. Nancy Burgess. Died of fever, at Townville, S. C. on Wednesday morning, Nov. 1lth, Mrs. Nancy C. Burgess, wife of J. A. Burgess, aged 43 years. The subject of this notice carried to the grave the love and friend-ship of all who knew her. Born and rais-ed in this neighborhood and having always lived here, our people knew how to appre-ciate her worth. She was happly married to Joseph A. Burgess in 1884. Their union has been a most happy one. She joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church at Rock Hill a few years ago, and has been a consistent and devoted member. She took great interest in all Church work, and was always present at the Church meetings when able to attend. As a Sunday School worker and Church member her death will be severely fe't by her Church. The sick and poor will also miss her kind ministrations. She was always ready to suc cor them in distress, and to do all she could to relieve their wants. Her many self-sacrifices for the welfare of others will be among the many laurels that will cluster around her grave. The sympathies of our people go out to her bereaved husband, on whom this blow falls with greatest weight. The consolations of religion, and the assurance that while she cannot come to him, but that he can go to her, will, w hope, enable him to bear up under this great trouble that has come into his life To the friends of Mr. Burgess, many of whom live at a distance, we would say she was sick over three weeks, and that she was a great sufferer most of the time, but bore it all as a consecrated Christian. To a friend she said, "I am ready and willing to die; my only regret is in leaving Mr. Burgess, who will be so lonesome and desolate when I am gone." She retained full possession of her men-tal faculties till the last. Drs. Hunt and Sharp were prompt in attendance, and did all that their medical ability could suggest, but her work on earth was done, her task was finished, and vain was the help of man. The next day the remains were laid to rest in the Cemetery at the Baptist Church after divine services by Rev. W. A. Kelly.
